solo reflection

Through the process of completing this project, I felt like this project was an easy one. The workload wasn't that hard and also the help of my teammates made everything better. Adding to this, the theme of this project was a very interesting one that made us focus and at the same time make us question more outside the box.

All of the individuals from the group had the same responsibilities, making it really fair for all the others. Our communications were pretty good too, if one person had a problem then the others were always offering help. This made me feel really relieved, as a person that never worked on a group paper I always heard that sometimes the group members will not do anything and that would affect the group grade, thankfully my groupmates weren't like this.

Through this project, I learned a lot of group skills, like how to work with others, something I wasn't so familiar with since I'm used to working on assignments by myself. I also learned how to look for sources more detail, something that I also wasn't familiar with because I used to just look for sources in Wikipedia or Google, this improved my quality of sources information because now I'm completely sure that I now get peer-reviewed sources and sources that are reliable.
